Insurance brokers worldwide

Tom Bartleet (United Kingdom)

Tom is the CEO and owner of Erskine Murray Insurance Brokers. Erskine Murray's foundations were laid around 40 years ago and, following a number of changes, is now a medium sized broker with coverage across England specialising in Business insurance, High Net Worth personal insurance, and Employee Benefits. Erskine Murray control around £25m of premium and they have more than 60 staff across the UK.

Prior to acquiring his own broker, Tom spent 20 years at Willis in a number of roles. These included broking large international property and energy clients in the London market and leading Willis' global terrorism business. He was the CEO of their US wholesale division in London and Bermuda, leading placement in the USA with a 2 year secondment to NY, returning to lead the SME segment globally. His final role was to lead placement for the International division controlling £7.5bn of premium.

Tom was educated at Haileybury College and the University of Manchester where he graduated with a 2.1 in Economics. Married with 3 teenage boys he is a keen skier and dog walker and sports enthusiast with his children. Unusually he enjoys insurance and is a big fan of technology at home and in the office.
